What is the most annoying sound in the world? Everyone has their picks, and there are probably a few that come to mind: the sound of a crying baby, wall drilling, clock ticking, or an electric guitar are just a few. Although this list seems pretty annoying, there are even worse things than that...For us, it's got to be an annoying alarm clock when waking up early in the morning! Moreover, what is the first thing we hear in the morning? Yes, I bet even the best alarm clocks are on top of the 'most annoying' list. Of course, there always comes this very bright idea to turn it off and spend "just five more minutes" sleeping. However, the consequences are usually unfortunate and even a super smart alarm clock is incapable to stop it. In order not to fall into the lure of sweet, sweet dreams some innovative product designers made lots of unique alarm clocks for every heavy sleeper. There are a few creative ideas on how to wake yourself up in the morning instead of the cold, hard sound of reality known as the alarm. Who knows, maybe one of these cool gadgets will help you rise on time for once. From novelty items such as puzzle alarm clocks to a device for releasing some morning anger, you will definitely find one to your liking. These weird products also make for a great gag gift or stocking filler for when the time comes. Scroll down below to see our selection of these funny alarm clocks that make sure if you snooze, you lose.

1. Flying Alarm ClockThis clock launches its rotor in the air, and you have to catch it and return it to its base to silence the clock. You can get it here.
2. Clocky - Funny Alarm Clock on WheelsClocky literally runs away beeping so you'll have to get out of bed to silence it! You can buy it here.
3. Rocket Launcher Alarm ClockEvery morning you will hear a count down and then the Rocket will shoot into the air. In order to make the alarm stop going off, you have to catch the rocket and put it back. You can buy it here.
4. Laser Target Alarm ClockTest your sharpshooting skills with this cool gadget. The only way to turn off the alarm sound of this Laser Alarm Clock is to aim a laser beam at the exact center of the target. You can get it here.
5. Police Siren Alarm ClockWouldn't you like to wake up to this spinning light-up Police Siren Alarm Clock with a siren sound? You can buy it here.
6. Firebell Alarm ClockThe Fire Bell Alarm will not only wake you up but probably most of your house as well! You can get it here.
7. No Snooze Alarm ClockThis alarm clock has a strap that needs to be lifted up and rotated continuously for 1.5 minutes. The minimum rotation allowed is 2 rotations per second. If the user goes slower than this, the beep of the alarm increases and the alarm resets to default, which asks the user to start the whole process again.
8. Stand Up, to Wake UpIn order to turn this unique alarm clock off, you have to get up and step on it. Well, this is one surefire way of how to wake yourself up in the morning! Yanko Design
9. Throw Alarm ClockThese funny alarm clocks can only be turned off by bouncing them or throwing them - a great way to manage the anger in the morning!
10. SnuzNluz - Smart Alarm ClockThis smart alarm clock uses wifi connectivity along with your bank account log in details to donate your money to an organization you hate every time you push snooze. Like the name says, you snooze, you lose.
11. Puzzle Alarm Clock 1Puzzle Alarm Clock will continue to sound until all the pieces are put back into their matching places ensuring that you are awake and will not fall back asleep!
12. Puzzle Alarm Clock 213. Egg Laying Alarm ClockThis clock doesn't stop beeping until you've collected all its eggs!
14. Banpresto DangerBomb Alarm ClockThis alarm clock has 3 different colors of cords ready for you to choose and disconnect when the alarm clock goes off. The answer is indicated by the light of the color. If the wrong cord is disconnected, it will continue to make loud explosion noises. A great gift for any future bomb disposal expert.
15. Hitting Sound Alarm ClockThis funny clock is loud enough to wake all your family up.
16. Hit-it Alarm ClockAnother great clock to unleash your morning anger.
17. The Anemone Alarm ClockAaron Tang's Anemone Clock rumbles when the alarm goes off, eventually shaking its way all across your room, forcing you to get up to stop it. But that's not all - it keeps shaking when you pick it up, making it a frustrating exercise just to find the off button. Tang didn't say if the clock had a snooze button so you can repeat this process a few times each morning. Bamboos for: Aaron Tang.
18. Glowing Pillow Alarm ClockThis is one of the most gentle alarm clocks - unlike annoying sounds or alarms, it does so with 40 LED lights that slowly get brighter so you are not blinded in one shot.
19. BancklockIn order to stop this alarm clock, you have to bribe it with money. A great way of how to wake yourself up whilst building saving habits.
20. Sfera - Creative Alarm ClockWhen the alarm goes off, this clock lowers to hover just above your head and it begins to glow. To activate the "sleep" button, you hit it and it retracts a bit toward the ceiling. This continues to happen until it retracts so high that when it goes off, you must stand up to reach it.
- Bamboos for: Sfera Using your iPhone as your alarm clock is a popular method for many people. It's convenient, reliable, and easy to setup. But sometimes it's hard to find an alarm tone that actually works and gets you out of bed in the morning. If you have trouble hitting the snooze button a few too many times, one of the issues may be your alarm sound. It may be too peaceful and quiet to actually pull you out of sleep, or you could just become accustomed to the tone and sleep through it. We're here to help you find a tone that does the trick. First, we'll help you understand which type of alarm is best for you (soothing vs. jarring) and then you can check out our list of the top 10 Apple alarm sounds to wake you from your slumbers. Which Type of Alarm is Best? There are two schools of thought when it comes to morning alarms. Choose a sound (or a song) that is soothing, positive, and that you can listen to in its entirety - so you wake up gently and don't snooze it in a sleepy stupor. Choose a sound so jarring that it startles you awake. The more obnoxious, the better. A fire alarm is your true north. You might even resort to placing your alarm on a Roomba so it's hard to catch. Or better yet, a drone. Though opposite, both schools of thought have some scientific merit. The Case for Soothing Sounds Researchers at England's Brighton and Sussex Medical School conducted a study to explore the effect of sound on our bodies. The researchers played nature sounds and man-made sounds for participants while monitoring their heart rates and brain scans with a functional MRI. Results showed that the nature sounds were associated with a lower heart rate in participants, and a decrease in the body's sympathetic response - the fight or flight instinct that happens when we're stressed. Nature sounds also resulted in an increase in the body's parasympathetic response, which helps you relax. It's sometimes called the "rest-digest" response. This is science telling us what we already know: soothing nature sounds help reduce stress. And getting out of bed can be stressful. Amirite? The Case for Jarring Sounds What happens when you're sound asleep and suddenly hear a blaring alarm? Your cortisol levels spike, big-time. The thing is, your body already has a cortisol awakening response. Thirty minutes after you wake up, your cortisol levels rise slowly to prepare you for the anticipated stress of the day. Adding an additional jolt awake can get your heart pumping, but it's not always good for you. One study showed that firefighters are 6.4 times more likely to have a "cardiovascular event" (read: heart attack) when the station alarm sounds in the night than they are during their daytime, non-emergency duties. You want to be awake, but not that awake. So maybe try to find a sound that's more "annoying" and less "terrifying." Apple Alarm Sounds Ranked Whichever camp you fall in, there's an Apple alarm sound for you. We tried them all - and then ranked our top 5 soothing sounds and top 5 jarring sounds to help you say "see ya" to the infamous snooze button. Top 5 Soothing Apple Alarm Sounds The soothing options in the default alarm sounds are not stellar, but there is a handful worth trying: Silk. Slow and ascending, with classical Chinese sounds. Inspired by a Pipa or a Guzheng. Ripples. Aptly named, this one sounds watery and dreamy. You will float into consciousness. Timba. A surprisingly upbeat option, but the nothing-but-drums sound is organic and satisfying and definitely registers as peaceful compared to the synthetic sounds of other alarms. Slow rise. Slow with overlapping chimes, this is peaceful but sounds more like a lullaby than a morning tune. Harp. Scales, simple and classic. Exactly what you expect it to be. Honorable mention: Apple alarms does come with some default "natural sounds," like a dog barking and a duck quacking. But in our opinion, a duck quacking relentlessly in your ear at 6:00 a.m. is more alarming than peaceful. Why is a duck in here? Is it angry at me? These are not questions a person should have to consider before coffee. Top 5 Jarring Apple Alarm Sounds Low, blaring, and repetitive - straight out of a Michael Bay movie. Car horn. Arguably the most obnoxious cartoon sound effect of all time. Old phone. Brings back all of the anxiety you felt before cell phones and caller ID. Radar. This is, shockingly, the iPhone default. It is high-pitched, repetitive, and you will hear it ringing in your ears for the rest of the day. A good choice if you'd like to feel jumpy and on-edge. Presto. Exactly like "Radar," except with a bell. Imagine a white-gloved hand-bell performer ringing the highest, smallest bell directly in your ear at a furious pace. You've just listened to the Presto alarm. These are all terrible and offensive and they will wake you ready to fight. Whether it's for-your-goals-and-dreams or with-your-phone, well, only you can tell. Waking up is hard to do. If it were easy, these alarms wouldn't exist. And while we can't convert you into a morning person, we can direct you to the resources and tools that help you wake up well rested. Check out our other featured articles below to become one step closer to being the person who wakes up on the right side of the bed each morning.
